Putting Butts Where They Belong:
City of St. Augustine Beach partners with Beaches Go Green for Ash Can Project

WHAT: The City of St. Augustine Beach has partnered with Beaches Go Green to place ash cans in strategic places (participating businesses, beach access points, Pier Park) throughout The City. They will be placing the first ash can for public use on December 5, 2019 at 11am at Pier Park.

WHO: City of St. Augustine Beach Commissioner Dylan Rumrell and Beaches Go Green Dilyn Jackson have joined forces to combat cigarette butt litter on St. Augustine Beach.

WHEN: December 5, 2019 at 11 am; In case of rain, event will be rescheduled to December 6, 2019 at 11am.

WHERE: Pier Park (350 A1A Beach Blvd, St. Augustine Beach, FL 32080)

WHY: "I am very excited to get to be part of such an impactful project," said Commissioner Dylan Rumrell. "It is our goal for these cans to reduce litter on our beaches, protect our wildlife from harmful chemicals found in tobacco products, and beautify our City."
